

Building a Community of Women Leaders to Advance a Culture of Inclusive Excellence

Institute Diversity, with the support of the Office of the President, is offering the Leading Women@Tech program to engage women leaders at Georgia Tech. The goal is to create opportunities and build a community of women across the Institute who will advance a culture of inclusive excellence at Georgia Tech.

As featured in President Peterson's 2016 Institute Address, Leading Women@Tech is designed to strengthen leadership ability, enhance personal and professional growth, and support overall career development of the participants. Throughout the 10-month program, sessions and activities focus on skill building in the following areas:

- » Efficacy
- » Emotional Intelligence
- » Mindful Leadership
- » Networking
- » Multiple Role Management
- » Negotiation

"Many staff women feel isolated at Georgia Tech, and they are seeking more career advancement and collaboration opportunities. Leading Women@Tech packages a comprehensive series of workshops that allow participants to get to know each other and develop a support network that is vital for the campus."

—Amy Henry, executive director, Office of International Education

"Leading Women@Tech has changed the way I see leadership. It is up to me to determine which leadership styles, tactics, and strategies work best for me in different situations, and I am now empowered to lead!"

—Carol Gibson, controller, Controller's Office

Learn more at diversity.gatech.edu/leadingwomenattech

28%

of staff-level positions above director-level are held by women at Tech

2016

launched inaugural Leading Women@Tech program at Tech

100%

of participants thought Leading Women@Tech was relevant, informative, and engaging

